CREATIVE ARTS CONFERENCE

NOVEMBER 4TH

the Guild

ENCOURAGING
CREATIVE COMMUNITY.

2023 CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

The Guild was designed to care holistically for the craft and character of creative people. We want to provide tangible opportunities that support artists/creatives in their journey of remaining faithful to their work and their walk with God.

Our desire is to inspire their creative work, spiritual journey, and daily rhythms. This conference was an initiative started by artists and event curators who recognized the need to challenge, support, and hold accountable other creatives whose lives and artistry have been redeemed by the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

We're providing leadership, discipleship, and partnership to artists/creatives before they take platforms, while they are on platforms, and long after they have left their platforms. Additionally, our heart is to create an experience that encourages intentional rest, resetting, and reflection in the presence of God in light of our call as creatives.

WHAT WE TALK ABOUT

Craft | We value creative people, the church, and the beautiful work that comes from within our community. We encourage excellence in artistry that brings honor to God and is a blessing to people.

Character | Our personal and professional lives as artists/creatives are guided by the Truth found in Scripture. The speakers who share at our conference are Spirit-led, Bible-based, with a focus on character/spiritual development.

LEADERSHIP TEAM

Singer, songwriter, and producer Jess Ray teamed up with Spoken Word Poet Sharlene Provilus to host the first Guild Conference two years ago. Cary Brege, a local event curator and avid art supporter, joined the leadership team in 2022. Since then, the three of them have worked together to host the Guild Conference.
